Release to Australian Stock Exchange

1 July 2013

RXP Services Limited (RXP) is pleased to announce that it has entered into a binding agreement to acquire strategic advisory firm, Transpire Pty Ltd.

Since 2006, Transpire has been working with executives in some of Australia's leading enterprises, providing management and technology advice and transformation consulting services, helping them drive growth in business value while reducing their overall business risk.

RXP Chief Executive Officer, Ross Fielding commented:

"As we continue to implement our strategy of strengthening our technology verticals and geographical presence, we are very pleased to have Transpire joining RXP.

Transpire have developed a well-earned reputation amongst some of Australia's largest companies for consistently innovating and delivering against the most difficult objectives. The adoption of the Transpire methodology will strengthen our Practices and become the benchmark for furthering successful services to be delivered to our clients.

We are looking forward to integrating the Transpire team into RXP and leveraging its capability across our wider business".

Commenting on the acquisition, Managing Partner at Transpire, Ben Meek stated:

"We are excited to be joining RXP and working together to build a progressive, high performance business focussed technology firm in Australia and Asia.

The team at RXP and their 'Practice' focussed business model dovetails perfectly with the strategic IT and management advisory capability Transpire has developed. RXP provides us with a clear platform to expand services and to enhance the value add to our clients".
